Proceedings of the Convention Held at Central Turner Hall To-Day—Messrs. Hickman, Muench, D'Amour, Mason, Duerr, Walbridge and Kicheson the Nominees-at-Large—Rev. John Snyder Gets Four Votes—Chariton H. Tandy Asks for a Negro and Gets Nothing—The Vote—Proceedings in Detail.

Ten o'clock this morning was the time and Central Turner Hall, described in the oratorical flights of the politicians to-day as "Missouri's Cradle of Liberty," was the place appointed by the Republican Central Committee to nominate candidates for the School Board, to be voted for at the election under the provisions of the Drubel act on the 22d Inst. The delegates were slow in assembling. Polls, Sergeant Campbell and a squad assigned to preserve the peace of the gathering found nothing to do and for some time after the convention hour rested undisturbed in the audience chairs at the north side of the hall. Delegate Sam Hays, Albert Blair, Dr. Emil Pretorius, Delegate Gundlach, Andy Brown, F. W. Mott, Hugo Muench and Chairman DeJano and Secretary Carmichael of the Central Committee were among the early arrivals and gave the character of variety to the sentiments represented in the proceedings.

Central Committeeman Lewis Wittenberg was the first man to arrive who had a grievance, which as he passed from group to group became more generally the topic of conversation through the hall. Last night when the Republicans of the Second District, which includes the Second and Fourth Wards, met at the Lindell, it was intended that Dr. Josselyn of the Second should receive the nomination as he was a new man with a clear record. When the meeting began word the Second Ward managers were surprised to find that School Director Wm. L. Goetzler had made an arrangement with the Fourth Ward representatives, which on a show-down of hands gave him the district nomination.

"We won't stand it," said Committeeman Wittenberg on the convention floor this morning. "I went to the committee-man of the Fourth Ward and told him that as far as my ward was concerned I wanted to call a meeting of the business men and to have them make a nomination without any assistance or interference from the committeeman. He agreed to do this and I have no candidate to offer. This understanding caused me to go to the convention. They had some gentlemen among the crowd who brought me messages from the Fourth Ward—a sprinkling of gentlemen, but, oh, such a gang of toughs! They nominated Goetzler and he got all the votes. The Second Ward delegation who voted for him was Johnny Ellison of Collector Street's, one of the men who was invited with him to the convention. Goetzler said, 'I won't stand it.' Wittenberg delivered a verbal speech to groups on the floor during the presentation of the names of the candidates, methods by which Goetzler secured his nomination last night. The director went around with his hands in his pockets, looking give and knowing, laying his 1-cent fines beside his nose when any of the Second Ward delegation came up to discuss the situation. Wittenberg announced that he would not support the nominees."

At 10 o'clock Charles Goetzler, a member of the city council, called the convention to order. A quarter of an hour was consumed in assigning delegates to the tables, no classification having been made for the convenience in which everything was expected to work harmoniously. In stating the purpose of the convention Chairmen Delano said:

"The object of this meeting is to place in nomination seven gentlemen as candidates for School Directors-at-large. The first name is the nomination of a temporary chairman, nominate Mr. Samuel Hays of the Twenty-second Ward for that position."

No name was suggested and on a vote he was selected with very complimentary unanimity.

He then took the chair said that with anticipation the action of the convention in a speech he would move the next order of business.

The name of Commodore Lyndon A. Smith had been suggested for temporary secretary. This likewise met with the approbation of the convention, and Commodore Smith, a familiar and round form appeared upon the stage.

Secretary Carmichael of the Republican City Committee was called to the platform for mass-meetings and primary elections of last evening, at which the delegates were elected, and for the retention of to-day.

Mr. Goetzler moved that the organization of committees on resolution and organization and that the city be purposed to proceed with the same. The motion carried.

Mr. Goetzler moved that the convention be adjourned by moving that the nominations for places on these committees be made by districts instead of wards. The amendment was accepted and the following gentlemen were named:

WORDS! WORDS! WORDS!!!

72,907 of Them Received Saturday Night for the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The telegraph service of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH first among the newspapers of the United States in the amount of its telegraphic service.

The indications for twenty-four hours commencing at 3 p.m. to-day for Missouri are: Fair weather, slight change in temperature; light to fresh winds, generally south to west.

A PRUDENT man will test his vindication before crowing over it.

PRINCE FERNAND is prospering on his shrubs. He should send congratulations to FORAKER.

THERE are reports of unusual blindness in the Russian army, but it can hardly be the hereditary blindness of the Russian Government.

IT is getting time for BEN BUTLER to select his issue and his organ for 1888. It is understood that he will try to improve on his 1884 experiment.

THE position of Consul-General to Liberia is now vacant. Here is a chance for some ambitious colonel to whom salary is not as important a consideration as glory.

DEMOCRATS ought to know by this time that there is no danger in advocating tariff revision; not half as much danger as in demanding the perpetuation of a war tariff.

FORAKER is disclaiming all desire for the Presidency. This indicates that the FORAKER boom is preparing to expand itself. The Ohio plan of managing a boom is peculiar.

ENGLAND has a much smaller standing army than any other of the great powers, but at present her soldiers are tolerably active for a nation that is supposed to be at peace with all the world.

C. H. J. TAYLOR, the colored Kansas City lawyer who has been stationed in Liberia as United States Counsel-General, has come home in disgust. He declares that Liberia is worse than Kansas City.

THE New York Evening Post asks what would happen if the Republicans should offer the country a first-class candidate on a first-class platform. Well, they might win next year if they should do that, but the Republican party is now having its innumerable blunders and will doubtless stick to it for a few years more, and perhaps longer.

The Irish World, PATRICK FORD's paper, says that the George and McGlynn combination made a big mistake in preaching, as the chief work of reform now before the country, the putting of a stove-pipe hat on the Pope. It is certain that the anti-poverty assault on the Catholic Church seriously cut down HENRY GSONON's vote.

AMES' "darling" and the undying animosity with which the "true loyal" always fight Democratic Union soldiers as candidates for office, no matter how heroic their records nor how earnest their support of pension bills, have defeated LOVERING in Massachusetts. But he gets 115,000 votes for Governor, which is only 4,000 below CLEVELAND'S vote in that State, and Mugwumps and anti-Blaire Republicans, who claim that they gave CLEVELAND about 15,000 votes, with it distinctly understood that they and their organs supported AMES against LOVERING. The vote for LOVERING therefore shows a remarkable growth of Democratic strength in that State. THOMPSON, Democrat, for Governor, received but 54,536 in 1885; ENDICOTT had 111,829 in 1884; ANDREW got 112,889 in 1886, and now LOVERING gets 118,000—an increase of 119 per cent in six years, while AMES' vote this year shows but 40 per cent of increase over the Republican vote for Governor in 1881.

COURTS OF CONCILIATION.

There is a movement on foot in Iowa to establish by law Courts of Conciliation such as they have in Denmark and Norway, and differing from somewhat similar French courts only in their lack of power to enforce judgment by coercive process. Where the French Conseils des Prud'hommes have failed to reconcile the parties, they can try the case and enforce judgment whether the parties are satisfied with the same or not. But the Court of Conciliation proposed for Iowa is nothing but a legal adviser employed and paid by the State to counsel both parties to a dispute on all the legal points involved, and to tell them how they ought to settle it, and induce them to compromise it and be friends again. Either party will have compulsory process to bring the other before this Court of Conciliation learned in the law, but either will be left free to reject its advice or abide by its plan of compromise or settlement. It is said that five-sixths of the controversies arising are settled in this way without litigation in Denmark, and that four-fifths of the controversies brought before the Conseils des Prud'hommes in France are settled by agreement without any formal trial and judgment, or subsequent ill will between the parties. The Iowa lawyers will therefore be apt to regard this movement as a sort of Communistic assault upon their rights and interests, an insidious attempt to cut off their revenues from the innumerable lawsuits and neighborhood feuds that grow out of petty torts, trespasses and quarrels. Some points of the controversy arising between employers and employees might also be settled in this way, so as to prevent or mitigate strikes, and if Iowa adopts the system its successful operation there will certainly command it to other States.

AN impressive illustration of party nominations for School Directors was presented in this City yesterday. The solitary Democratic primary held in the Eleventh District is alleged to have been attended by just 320 of the 2,000 Democratic voters in the District. The other 168 failed to attend because they could not see why any political organization should presume to take charge of the schools. They wisely concluded to reserve their votes until they could vote intelligently after hearing from the various candidates for School Director just what their views of school management and school reform are. It was the same way in the Republican primaries generally throughout the city. The old ward bummars were on hand while the Republican citizens were absent. Old discredited "gang" leaders seemed to have no difficulty in running things their own way. From these primaries come delegates to a convention which is to nominate seven candidates-at-large, and thus complete a party ticket for School Directors. Some good names may be put on to pull the bad ones through, but it looks as if things were out and dried to keep boodle and book ring influence up-keepers and prevent any substantial reform. Our advice to every voter is to beware of party tickets and to vote regardless of politics for those candidates only whose ideas of school reform he knows and approves.

CONGRESS should by law provide some speedier and more effective method of putting a stop to the fraudulent patent business. Under a patent, which the United States Supreme Court has just pronounced invalid, patentees have been harassing, blackmailing and robbing the people of this country for years. By collusive suits judgments have been obtained to lead effectiveness and a color of legal right to these operations, and an immense amount of wrong has been done thereby, when all the time from the very beginning of the fraud the Supreme Court was ready to pronounce the patent invalid upon a proper presentation of the legality of its issue, in a proceeding by some party who had a right to raise the question. The decision is that the driven wells were in general public use at Cortland, N. Y., for two years before any patent was applied for, and therefore the discovery was not legally patented.

The Bell Telephone monopoly is also said to rest wholly on decisions obtained by collusive suits, in which the vital question of the fraudulent issue of the patent could not be raised, and the country is still waiting for an adjudication of that case on points that can be raised and proved only in a proper proceeding commenced by the United States Government. Summary proceedings by the Attorney-General to test the validity of questionable patents without delay should be provided for by law.

THE Boston Globe presents a carefully prepared array of statistics showing that, in Massachusetts, men might have voted in 1885, 200,000 men did not. The vote for Governor in that year was only 45 per cent of the entire possible vote, while the vote for President in 1884 was 70 per cent of the possible vote. Now the question arises: Did this wonderful falling off in the popular vote indicate that anybody's vote was suppressed?

TIME TO PUT IN THE WORK.

From the Boston Herald.
The result of the election ought to have the effect of stimulating the Democratic leaders in Congress to renewed action in the direction of the adoption of an aggressive policy, and that is soon to open. It is to be in some respects a most critical time, as has been held since the close of the civil war. A time has come when a great change must be made in the fiscal policy of the Government. The Democratic recipe has been widely proclaimed and the Republican propositions have received an equally extended hearing. So far as losses or gains in votes are concerned, these have already been discounted.

If the great majority of the people of this country were distrustful of the plans of tariff reform proposed by the Administration and supported by Messrs. Carlisle, Breckinridge, Beck and others, they would not wait until after these plans had been put into force before exposing them to the world. The dissenters would have given their rebuke last Tuesday, if they had believed that one was called for; and hence a wise but liberal measure of tariff reform if adopted by the House of Representatives next winter and forced upon the Senate is not likely to cause the Democratic party any loss of strength, since it has already suffered all that it can lose in that direction.

MRS. ANNIE BEANTRY and Mr. Bradlaugh have parted company so far as editing The National Reformer is concerned. Mrs. Besant has become an ultra-Socialist, going far beyond the extreme Radicals of Mr. Bradlaugh.

MADELINE GARNIER, a niece of Joaquin Miller, is a clerk in the First Assistant Postmaster-General's office. She lives entirely alone in the log cabin erected by Miller on Meridian Hill, just outside of Washington. She seems to have no fear of danger in her out-of-the-way retreat, and attributes her lack of nervousness to a clear conscience and the possession of a trusty revolver. She is a crack shot.

MRS. VON OVERBECK, formerly well known in the District of Columbia as the widow of General Goddard, daughter of Mrs. Dahlgren, has been spending the winter in Washington with her mother. The visit will be the first Mrs. Von Overbeck has paid the capital since her marriage, many years ago. Prince Poniatowski of Paris will also be a guest of Mrs. Dahlgren during the season.

METROPOLITAN PRESS.

What the Editors of the New York Journals Are Saying This Morning.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, November 15.—The world says:

"The significance of this extraordinary demonstration will not end with the occasion that incited it. The danger of another anarchical outbreak may be allayed, though the mad call for 'vengeance' at the graves may well keep the authorities on the alert. But the ignorance that led to the outbreak, the hopeless confusion of thought which sees in social and political revolution a means for ends, is still dominant. The blind hatred of a Government which is the best for the working people that the world has ever known—these remain to be enlightened and restrained. It will be a great mistake to stop with the hanging of the Anarchists."

ROYAL BIRTHDAY CELEBRATIONS.

The birthday celebrations customarily held in honor of the Prince's natal day at Sandringham, have mostly been put off till the Princess' return. The county hall, which was to have been given Friday evening, will not take place before the end of the month at the earliest, even if the doctors do not advise further postponement, owing to the Princess' unfortunate illness. The Prince gave a dinner to all the laborers on the Sandringham estate on Wednesday, and was most heartily greeted on his entrance to their tent during the festive celebration.

SPECIAL CABLEGRAM TO THE POST-DISPATCH.

LONDON, November 15.—The session will begin between February 3 and 10, the exact day not being fixed. It is the Queen's intention to open Parliament in person. All being well, Her Majesty will come up to Buckingham Palace from Osborne for the ceremony. But all court arrangements of every kind now depend on the health of the Crown Prince of Germany.

ADUATE MEASURES.

The measures which were adopted by Sir Charles Warren during the fortnight absence of Mr. Henry Matthews from London were proved by actual experiment perfectly adequate for the control of the rabble and the demagogues at their head. But for the meddlesome imbecility and fussy incompetence of the Home Secretary, it cannot be doubted that the tranquility of the metropolis would have been much improved by the absence of the Queen.

JUDGE DILLON DENIES A DIVORCE TO A DESERTED HUSBAND.

A Peculiar Domestic Story With Faults on Both Sides—Judge Seddon's Decision on Demurrer in the Lancaster Suit—New Suit Entered To-Day Under the Dome—Chapters of Matrimonial Misery.

Judge Dillon to-day rendered a decision of domestic interest in the contested divorce of Patrick Murphy against Mary Murphy. The Court does not think, under the evidence and the pleadings, that any decree of divorce should be rendered. The petition alleged cruel and barbarous treatment of the husband and his children, and such indignities as to render his condition intolerable; also absence from the country without reasonable cause. The parties were married in 1882, and they have been in serious trouble until February, 1886. About that time they had a violent disturbance, and the husband alleged that the wife assaulted him with a poker and a pitcher. She, however, declared that he struck her and that she simply defended herself. They kissed and made up the same day and lived together peacefully till May following. At that time Mrs. Murphy, without sufficient cause, became petulant and dissatisfied and left home, going to her sister's house.

The following night at the supper hour the husband came back but said that she only wanted a bunch of flowers. The husband sent for the police and the following day Mrs. Murphy remonstrated with him.

The husband continued to keep house for two weeks, disposing of his household goods and went to a boarding-house.

He was now compelled to leave his wife.

Mrs. Coquelin has embodied their creation faithfully, consistently and with remarkable skill. The only question is whether it was on the whole worth embodying.

And Still He Wants It?

One of the contributors to the Newton Graphic was so ardent an admirer of the Ivory Soap pictures that he "wreaked his thoughts upon expression," and sent the following to the proprietors:

Meers, Procter & Gamble, out there in the West, in the Ivory Soap business—give us a rest. We have saved all your pictures, and the best are the last.

Thought I might give you a sample past, not as nice as yours, save in subject and style, yet fresh as a daisy, and all about soap.

Will you jump in? This means a strain. Will you go on continuing, somehow, we do not know.

By the way, there are widowers piling to know what to do with their wives, whose attractions they don't like. Please tell us, where they live, if we may not as well as the last.

FRISCO'S SCANDAL.

Swain, Co-Respondent in the McDonald Case, Arrested for Forgery.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., November 15.—Seneca Ansonia, Sheriff of San Francisco, in the divorce suit brought by young McDonald against Clara Belle McDonald is wanted now for service. This charge, following on the heels of Clara Belle's arrest, and many other incidents in the domestic life of the McDonalds, including the attempt of Clara Belle to shoot her father-in-law, has added to the public interest in the affair. Swain is a sporting man, with whom the public are well acquainted. Young McDonald visited Chief of Police Crowley yesterday and swore out a warrant for Swain's arrest. It was then that it was discovered that he was wanted for forgery. The charge is the forgery of railroad certificates. It seems that young McDonald left sufficient evidence before him to prove that he was the real forger of Dr. McDonald's endorsements on the certificates of stock which Leland Stanford bought from him. The charge is serious. Notwithstanding her indorsement, public sympathy is entirely with her and against the elated sheriff. Young McDonald was twice divorced and would return at once to his wife were it not for the angry remonstrances of his father. Mr. McDonald's name is mentioned in the divorce suit as a fact to secure the baby girl. She accuses old McDonald of being a cruel miser.

Clara Belle, Mrs. McDonald's daughter, was called yesterday morning. There were five charges that she forged the signature of Dr. R. H. McDonald, her father, to a $10,000 bill of exchange of railroad stock sold by her to Leland Stanford. A certificate from Dr. Robinson read that Mrs. McDonald was confined to her bed by nervous prostration, and that she had been in a state of shock for two weeks. The physician feared she would be subjected to another attack. After consultation with Dr. Robinson, she continues the case till to-day, maintaining a physician for the prosecution will visit Mrs. McDonald with Dr. Robinson and ascertain her condition.

A dispatch received from Coffax last night announces that Seneca Swain has been arrested for forgery. He was arrested yesterday. Swain was traveling under the name of Sanford with New York as his objective point. He is accused of having forged a certificate of incorporation of a company he had formed to secure a loan of $10,000 worth of diamonds, $600 in greenbacks and $15,000 in Treasury notes.

Pittsburg, Phil! Descends Upon His Meth- ods in Turf Betting.

A New York dispatch says: "Pittsburg Phil, the boy pugilist, sat in the billiard room of Willard's Hotel, Washington, last night, watching a game of billiards. He is a smooth-faced young fellow, and has just reached his majority. Phil has laid away about $100,000 as a result of the season's betting, and now that the season is over he is going to lay it out in a big way. He has been pretty lucky here in Washington," he said, "and have won very close to $10,000. My biggest wins were $20,000 on Marvin, $6,000 on Patricius, $4,000 on Valiant. They broke very bad for me in Baltimore, and during the meeting I dropped $2,000 on the bet that I would win the horse on their form. People grumble about their losses, but they wouldn't lose as often if they would bet on the horses in the first place."

The trial of the French decoration scandal in the 18th arrondissement, Gen. D'Andian to five years imprisonment, a $600 fine and a deprivation of civil and political rights for life, was adjourned yesterday. There aren't five men that bet who watch the horses while they are running. I always do. I am not a gambler, simply because you can't judge a horse on form in jumping race. I've put a bet down when the horses are running, but I don't care what the odds are. I am not on the idea that luck is always going to turn. I am not a gambler, but I bet to get even, and if I lost I'd double up again, and so on. People say it's luck.

"I am standing in a crowd or sitting around a place like this, and there'll be some one doesn't know me will open fire on me. I heard a fellow say to-day that I wouldn't get wet if I dropped into water; but he said my hands would be frozen off. I said, 'I don't go broke.' I'd like to bet him on that, only I don't make any wagers outside the horses. I like to see them play jockeys, but I pretty largely gamble on the horses. McLaughlin's mounts. I don't often take stable tips, excepting tips on Richmond, and I've made lots of."

"The biggest bet I ever made was just after I was barred out by the book-makers at Saratoga. I had a little sum on Cambyses. I got odds of 15 to 1 straight and 6 to 1 for place, and I pulled up on clean $20,000. It was the end of the season, and I had spouted my prospects to the book-makers. Another horse came in second, was less than a head behind. Another was 10 to 1, and I was 10 to 1. The race brought me in $15,000. The biggest wager ever made was $10,000 on the Kentucky Derby. I don't know how I first came to get into the newspapers. One thing that made a good deal of talk was that I won a place for $10,000. Another was that I won a good winner and another man bet $2. He got my ticket and I got his. He swore on two oaths that he had won a place, and we went to Judge Widener to decide. He sized us both up and gave me the big ticket. It was a first-class sensation should have."

"The new League in the East is all to come place if the Eastern clubs even wanted to do anything about base ball can see what a mess the whole business would be thrown into. Then, again, probably no club in the East would want to do anything that sort, and they don't, such a move would naturally antagonize the Western managers and there would begin a fight which would result disastrously for the interests of base ball East and West. DON M. DICKINSON.THE MICHIGAN DEMOCRAT WHO IS TO SUCCEED POSTMASTER-GENERAL VILAS.

Col. Vilas to Take Lamar's Place in the Interior Department—Dickinson Entering the Cabinet Solely to Please Mr. Cleveland—The Friendship Between the Two—The Michiganan's Career As a Lawyer and a Politician.

By Telegraph to the Post-DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 15.—The report was current here last night that Don M. Dickinson, who was recently offered the appointment of Postmaster-General, had written to the President asking to be definitely advised as to the date on which he would be expected to assume charge of the department. While there is no official confirmation of this rumor, it may be little doubt of the truth. Mr. Vilas is clinging to the ruin which he laid down for himself in the subject of Cabinet changes was first agitated a few weeks ago, refuses to say anything whatever as to what he may know of the President's intentions. He does not deny the report that he is to take the Interior portfolio, which, it is argued, he would hasten to do if it were not substantially true. At the White House last evening nothing could be learned beyond the fact that the rumor of Mr. Dickinson's acceptance had been received there. Inquiry with regard to the tender of the appointment by the President and Mr. Dickinson's reply was met with a refusal to comment on the subject.

Judge Chipman of Detroit, Congressman-elect of the First Michigan District, who is a warm friend of Dickinson, and whose advice has often guided him at critical points in a rather eventful career, said to the Post-DISPATCH correspondent last evening: "While I have no positive information on the subject I am confident that Mr. Dickinson has to-day advised the President of his acceptance of the proposed appointment. In going into the Cabinet he is actuated solely by a desire to please himself."
